

Mike Roth, LSSBB

Operational Excellence Director, Go-Lean-Six

Mike is a motivated, results-driven Lean Six Sigma Black Belt. He has trained and mentored many teams, who have consistently improved customer satisfaction by reducing the cost and time to safely produce high quality products and services. Mike is effective in partnering with management to solve complex business problems and influence employees toward achievement of organizational goals.

As an integral part of the founding and operation of Go-Lean-Six, Mike believes in their philosophy of continuous improvement through teamwork. As such, he knows what it takes to educate, motivate and empower natural management teams, natural work teams, and special project teams to bring about continuous process improvement in an organization. These value stream transformation teams utilize Lean and Six Sigma principles working to continuously improve the customer-focused metrics of quality, cost, and on-time delivery.

Mike also believes that the road to success starts with one's customer(s), that employee engagement helps employees own their work and take responsibility for their results, that continuous improvement is a journey (not a destination), and that you must collect data in order to measure, measure in order to improve, and improve in order to be the supplier of choice.
